Windshield rubber for my Lagonda 3-Liter Saloon Tickford Coupe LB290/70 (build DEC 1954)

Written by dierkberl at May 10, 2016 7:40 pm

Dear all

I am have restored my good old Lagonda (see above) recently and due to the fact that the old windshield rubbers were rotten and totally dried out I am now desperately searching for „new“ windshield-rubbers. I tried a lot of contacts, but unfortunately until tdy nobody was able to help me with my search. 🙄 🙄

Pls see the two attached pics (car and profil of the rubber).

Are you able to help my and do you know, who might have such rubbers in stock or do you know someone, I might contact?

Thank you very much for your help

Dierk

Someone will correct me but I think these are being remanufactured for Club members. You could telephone Robin or Leah for an update.

Lovely looking car, by the way. Have you had her long?

Regards,

Tim

I've never understood why there are so many different profiles of windscreen rubber when they all do virtually the same job. Why?

Not only do the profiles vary (a lot) but the rubber hardness and flexibility also varies making the job downright unpleasant.

Hi David,

yep, you are god d... right...

Lagondaforum: Windshield rubber for my Lagonda 3-Liter Saloon Tickford Coupe LB290/70 (build DEC 1954)

That's the problem! 🤔 😞 :(

It seems as if we will have to use a rubber, what is far away from the originals, once used... 😞

I want the car to be back on the road again 🙏 🙏

Hi Tim ,
since 2003. Enjoying to drive with her all around Europe.

Dear all ,

I do not give up my hope to find the suitable windshield rubbers for my Lagonda... !

Pls see the pics attached.

In the meantime we have fixed the windshield with "other" rubbers and you can see that the face of the car lacks the smile of the beautiful integrated chrome strips of the original rubbers...

For a better understanding..., we have the chrome strips but not the suitable profiles...

Who knows someone hiding these rubbers in his barn... 🤔 ?

Thanks again

Brgds

Dierk
