

Lagondaforum: 3 Litre survivor?

3 Litre survivor?

Written by David at May 19, 2016 2:30 pm

Does anyone know if LB290/1/130 survives please. Many thanks

Re: 3 Litre survivor?

Written by SRD at May 20, 2016 9:11 am

David - car last recorded in Australia in 1996

Re: 3 Litre survivor?

Written by David at May 20, 2016 11:12 am

Thanks Simon, I wonder if yted knows the car or owner?

Re: 3 Litre survivor?

Written by SRD at May 21, 2016 10:47 pm

Worth dropping our dear friend an email, but currently away on a 2-week jolly.

Do you have a personal connection ?

Re: 3 Litre survivor?

Written by David at May 22, 2016 9:31 pm

I have a piece of the car's history. Long story...

Re: 3 Litre survivor?

Written by SRD at May 23, 2016 9:14 pm

3.0, litre manual possibly ?

Re: 3 Litre survivor?

Written by yted at May 29, 2016 5:59 am

Just returned from 3 weeks in a camper trailer in Central Australia: sheer bliss no internet and only occasional telephone.

I do not know this car but will do some research when I have time.

Simon's drop head sale at Bonhams AM was great news to return to.

Re: 3 Litre survivor?

Written by yted at Jun 06, 2016 9:34 pm

David, Simon,

I emailed George Hobbs, the last known owner according to older Club registers.

The car is still in his garage in Adelaide. He made no further comment.

Did the dhc in Monaco on eBay finally sell?

Re: 3 Litre survivor?

Lagondaforum: 3 Litre survivor?

Written by David at Jun 08, 2016 9:43 pm

Might Mr Hobbs be interested in a handbook in well used condition annotated by previous owners?. If not it's available on the open market

Re: 3 Litre survivor?

Written by SRD at Jun 09, 2016 10:10 pm

I guessed correctly, would be nice to unit the car and handbook..

By chance I picked up the hand-book of LB290/1/265 a little while ago, the car sold at Bonhams several years ago, so if the current owner ever reads this forum, please be in contact..
