

Lagondaforum: Running boards

Running boards

Written by reevsy at Apr 26, 2008 5:07 pm

Hi All. 1957 Series 2 3 Ltr Drophead!

1. Can anybody point out if the running boards were plain rubber or had anti-slip aluminium strips? If so how many?
2. Radio speaker how was this mounted and were?
3. Where is the map light fitted?

Thanks

Peter

---

Re: Running boards

Written by john at Apr 26, 2008 5:13 pm

Hi Peter

The Running Boards had ribbed black rubber. John

---

Re: Running boards

Written by Peter S30 at Apr 27, 2008 7:34 pm

Hi Peter,

I just removed my speaker a few days ago (rotten). It is sitting left side of the car below the rear passenger seat. 4 screws are fixing the loudspeaker, they are in 128mm distance each. The hole for the speaker is about 150mm. photo attached. I let you know how my replacement will look like in a few days. It will be an 8Ohm one.

My running board has three rubber stripes fitted in aluminium holders (see picture)

I have no map reading light on the dasboard (photo). Looking in the original manual of the car you find many versions of dashboards.

yours

Peter

---

Attachments:

speaker.jpg (filesize: 27.98 KB)

running board.jpg (filesize: 27.57 KB)

dashboard.jpg (filesize: 32.65 KB)

---