Hi Simon, any ideas on the price DD are asking?

David hi, no idea, slightly nervous to ask, these dealers are known for their high prices...

If I recall the car did not make the 300k lower estimate at the end of last year and was still owned by AML at the time ?

Hi Simon, I recall the AML car is 146 but 133 was offered at Bonhams last December estimated to go for 170k but stalled at 140k.

David hi, you are right of course.

The car looks fine, wonder why the owner did not enter it into the AML Bonham's auction ?

I wonder if DD are now its owners or offering it on commission in which case their rate may be less than Bonham's. I might also think that having several auction no sales can't be good for its prospects in the near term market
