

Lagondaforum: DB Rapide restoration project for sale

DB Rapide restoration project for sale

Written by Peter S30 at Apr 19, 2012 8:42 am

Moved post by admin: the following post was added by Ian Bullock to a discussion about another Rapide (LR113) and I had to move it here because it has nothing to do with LR113. Please remember it is easy to create a new topic, simply choose the right section and click on "New Topic" instead of selecting an ongoing topic and choosing "Add Reply".

I also deleted 2 small replies asking for more information (chassis number). I had to do this because the forum software does not offer a simple solution to deconvolute mixed-up discussions.

Ian Bullock: I am a new member to the Forum. I have a Lagonda Rapide, 1963, just over 16,000 miles on the clock. It has been in our garage since my father died some 25 years ago, the condition is consistent with that fact.

We are looking for offers over £15,000 for the car. It will be a restoration project for an enthusiast.

Ian Bullock

Re: DB Rapide restoration project for sale

Written by David at Apr 19, 2012 10:44 am

So If I may, I'll repeat my request of Ian Bullock that can he share some more detail on his vehicle. This is another historically important car to find, and reduces the number of DB Rapides still not known to only 3

Re: DB Rapide restoration project for sale

Written by SRD at Apr 30, 2012 8:48 pm

This car is LR126 as everyone on the forum seems to know.
