Update - went over the barn this morning for a tinker and found that No1 was not sparking properly. Swapped the plugs for a clean set and all's fine. Also, should add that she started second turn which is pretty good considering that she's not been started for 6 weeks and it's cold weather. Sounds sweet running on all six so I'm a happy man. Now just need a nice dry day to get her out for a decent run... 🤗
